List of Figures

- 1.1: The basic system configuration task 5
- 1.2: An example of configuration change rate 11
- 1.3: An LCFG configuration specification 20
- 2.1: Levels of configuration specification 23
- 2.2: Non-idempotent vs. idempotent actions 27
- 2.3: Conflicting actions 27
- 2.4: Non-declarative vs. declarative specifications 28
- 3.1: Inheritance in SmartFrog 33
- 3.2: The LCFG status display 37
- 5.1: The LCFG architecture 47
- 5.2: The Active Directory hierarchy 50
- 5.3: An Active Directory group policy 51

Acknowledgments

Thanks to Adam Moskowitz for persuading me that it was worthwhile writing down my thoughts on this subject, and to Rik Farrow for his supportive editing. The computing staff in the School of Informatics at Edinburgh University have suffered my experimental code on their production system and provided invaluable practical feedback. Too many people to name have contributed by reviewing text, commenting, and patiently explaining things that I didn't understand.
